

Shaded groups (J1): the homology arm is identical to the endogenous locus, so these reads cannot be assigned to one or the other — the aligner splits them arbitrarily and reports MAPQ 0. J1 counts are therefore NOT a measure of evidence strength and are not comparable with J2 counts. Only J2 reads (MAPQ 60) uniquely identify the targeted allele.